The Building

Ex Libris is the Latin expression that literally means "from the Books of". The name of this building does not negate the tradition of this street, which connects Luís de Camões Square to Largo Trindade Coelho, in Chiado, already communicating with the typical Bairro Alto. Literary and journalistic activity has always been a stronghold of this artery and the Ex Libris building is proof of this, having been the headquarters of The Illustrated Diary, suspended in 1956, and home of the Camões Bookstore. With a great location this building is in the center of the action where there is always something going on. At any time you can go out and walk in Chiado or even go to Avenida da Liberdade where you will find the most luxurious shops, as well as discovering that you are within walking distance of the trendy bars and restaurants in the city

How to arrive

Transfer Service:

This service is done by our drivers, who take the airport to our building and can also take the return as well. It is a most comfortable and easy way to get to Almaria – Ex Libris.

Subway:

At the airport, head for the red line towards "S. Sebastião" station, then change to the green line at "Alameda" and get off at "Baixa-chiado" station. From this station to Almaria – Ex Libris it is 5 minutes walk.

Bus:

This is a shuttle service from Lisbon airport to the city center. This service operates from 07:30 to 23:00 and the nearest station of Almaria - Officina Real is the "Cais do Sodré". From this station to our building it is 7min walk.
